

I am writing with regard to the proposed vote on June 2 by the FCC to allow increased ownership of media by a single source. This decision would further homogenize news coverage, and give undue influence to a handful of media giants. The result would be to inhibit the free and democratic expression of a multitude of ideas in the United States.

Movement should be in exactly the opposite direction - to allow a greater number of media outlets to express a greater diversity of viewpoints.